ARIZONA WEEKLY ENTERPRISE. ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION FLORENCE, - SEPTEMBER 24, 1887

Indian Medicinal Ideas The Indian ideas about "medicine" are so widely different from those at-tached to the same expression by the whites that it is necessary to explain the matter. As all diseases are supposed by them to be, not a disturbance of natural actions of the body, but the effects produced by the presence of an evil spirit or several of them in the human economy; consequently the remedy consists of some-thing that will drive out the demons, and this can only be through the agency of spirits opposed to those already in pos-The term "medicine" consequently spirit of the right sort to oust the malignant powers. A remedy, as we understand it, cannot be constituted as we understand it, cannot be constituted as the constitute of the right sort to oust the malignant powers. stand it, cannot be conceived by the avage: he has no word baving any such significance in his vocabulary. Lika all savages, the Indian believes human in character, and swayed by reason of their original nature, but those Direct which are able to do him harm are flattered and placated in every way he can think will serve the purpose. The malignant powers are supposed to be moved by all the human passions, ar, some of them are thought to be easily frightened, others may be cajoled, while some are extremely revengeful and hardly to be influenced by man.—Globc-

Grains of Sand. The manufacture of sand is an important industry, which has Pittsburg for its headquarters, although the sand is not made within the limits of the city. There is a considerable traffic in Monongal sand, which is scooped up from the bed of the river, to be used for common building purposes; but the manufacture of sand is quite another affair, and the product goes into quite a different commodity, which is glass.

Practically glass is almost pure sand, other substances used in its manufacture for fluxing being consumed while the sand is transformed to a greater or less degree of transparency. The sand used in glass making is almost pure silica, so nearly pure that there is less than 1 per cent. of iron, magnesia and alumir to 90.1 per cent. of the other. And of this sand, which is quarried out of the hills and ground down to various degrees of fineness, and washed to various degrees of whiteness, 800 tons are manufactured daily, 400 tons being consumed in and about Pittsburg and 400 tens go ing into eastern Ohio and West Virginia, to Wheeling, Bellaire, Columbus and all points within a circuit of 150 miles from Pittsburg.—Popular Science Monthly.

Clocks are not only useful but very crnamental, and so very cheap, too. A very pretty antique pressed brass mantel (American make), with a deep toned cathedral gong of a far away sound, can be had for $10. A good timekeeper, nickel plated, costs but ninety cents. The prices have this wide range, and selections can be made from various thousands of office clocks, alarms, mekoos, halls, and striking or silent recorders of the flight of precious hours. Clocks that tell the state of the weather, and are also calendars; clocks that tinkle the half hours and chime the full; clocks that work like watches or swing the faithful pendulum, and, in fact, clocks of all kinds, matching all dispositions, are abundant and cheap, and there seems to be no excuse for even the eccupant of an east side flat for not having one. These Yankee clocks are appreciated abroad and below, for the exportations to Europe, a day .- New York Times.

Detectives in the Mines.

Says a Mexican mine owner: "We usu-ally have trusty men who act as detectives and work around in the mine picking up information. In this way we discover many strange devices to smuggle out the mineral. One day a detective came to me and said when such and such men come out examine their sandals. I had that done. On the bottoms of the sandals was what appeared to be mud, but when it was scraped into a pan and worked I found that it ran at the rate of $3,000 to the ton. My miners had plastered a thin layer of mud from the mine over the leather and then sprinkled on the par-ticles of silver, and over all had put another layer of mud. They were working for thirty-seven and a half cents a day,

Count Beust's Simplicity.

Count Beust left a written statement of he manner in which his estate was to be disposed of, but no formal will; for, he he said in the statement referred to, "to make a will is a repulsive thing.' directed that the simple stone above his grave should bear only his name, the dates of his birth and death, and the words "Peace to his ashes, justice to his memory."-New York Tribune.

The Laponian Style of Beauty. One may easily construct a Lapp prototype by taking a quantity of worn out, moth eaten furs and arranging them into an unsymmetrical, oblong bundle, placed erect and surmounted by a freshly smoked ham, with two small pink marbles thrust rudely into the skin side, and you will have the general effect.—Outing.

Protection from Frost. In some parts of the wine district of France the church bells are tolled when there is likely to be a frost severe enough to hurt the vines. The inhabitants at once hurry out of their houses and place quantities of tar between the rows of vines. Then a signal is given to light the tar, and in a few minutes a dense cloud of smoke arises which completely protects the vines from the frost.-New York Tribune.

Sirring Them Up.

The brisk, lively housekeeper is described aptly in a new novel of western life, "Zury." "She was called a 'come gals kind of a woman' by neighbors, partly in ridicule of her enthusiasm and partly in admiration of her energy.
